ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The International Social Science Congress: Past, Present and Future is a dynamic, multidisciplinary platform dedicated to exploring the evolving landscape of social sciences and their impact on global societies. This congress seeks to foster dialogue across diverse disciplines, bridge the gap between academic theory and real-world application, and envision the future trajectories of human knowledge, interaction, and development. Bringing together scholars, practitioners, researchers, and students from across the globe, the Congress provides a unique opportunity to engage in collaborative learning, critical discussions, and innovative thinking. Thematic sections of the conference are designed to reflect both contemporary issues and emerging trends within the broad ambit of social sciences:
