

Online Short Term Course on Pandemic Analytics using Machine Learning with Python

Machine Learning enthusiasts from all across the globe came together on a platform to get updated skills from one of ace subject matter experts of the country. This course is designed to help participants understand the basics of Python, to explore many different types of data and learn. The Program was spread over 12 days. Participants learnt to acquire the competencies of pandemic analytics ,perform exploratory data analysis, visualization of data and build predictive model using Machine Learning.

