BEST OF LUCK FOR THE NEW SEMESTER

As the semester has just begun, I would like to extend my best wishes to all students of this great and noble institution. Every semester is a new beginning as you will be learning new things and many other things. And as we entering the semester, let's always remind ourselves that the main goal of being here is studies, therefore, let's focus on our studies and attend lectures regularly.

The semester can be a daunting task and sometimes poses excessive pressure but development of a self-coping mechanism is relevant for adaption, especially for us, the new students who are not yet fully in the system. While of course it will be challenging, rest assured that university education can be the most interesting chapters of your life. Therefore let's make the best use of this moment as students of this lovely institution.

Therefore, make this count by not only limiting yourself within the corners of the classroom, but heftily engaging in students activities

At LPU, achieving academic excellence is the top most priority and engagements. Working in groups has the potential of shaping you to the better and progressive version of yourself. The old adage of "No man is An Island" also implies that students of a university community, you cannot get, give, and do it all alone; good, honest, and mutual friendship is sacrosanct for any student of a university.

Generally for freshmen to connect with their senior in order to benefit from any guidance that can pave ways for their academic success should indeed be a priority. Again, friendship among the freshmen could lead to a win-win drive.

At Lovely Professional University, achieving academic excellence is the top most priority. Wish you success in your semester.

Inspirational sites for design students

For a design student, 'inspiration' plays an important role while designing. So here are some sites, a designer must visit to get some insights:

Art Station
An enormous exhibition of abstracts, architectural concepts, automotive visualization, character design, book illustrations, character modeling, fashion and costume design, motion graphics, VFX for filmmaking, etc.

Behance
Its four 'P' search engine is quite minimal and easy, one can explore 'Projects, Photos, Prototypes, People' all at once.

Dribbble
Their site even has a dedicated inspiration column if you are looking for animations, illustrations, product design, typography, prints, and web design concepts.

'LPU checks all the boxes I was looking for'

Hailing from Noakhali district in Bangladesh, Snigdho Roy Bondhon is currently pursuing BTech CSE in LPU. Apart from being an engineer at heart, Snigdho has been an outstanding cricketer. He represented Bangladesh in U-17 cricket while there. We talk to him about his experiences at LPU.

Tell us something about your cricketing experience at LPU?

As a cricketer, when I joined LPU I was worried about my training. But when I met the coaches and trainers here all my worries faded away. The world-class trainers and coaches of LPU kept me on the right track. They gave me a lot of support and freedom to express and perform.

Your favourite activity at LPU and why?

I am a member of YTV team and I am exploring all possibilities here

Other than cricket I like photography and videography. Because through photos we can capture the moments we live now and cherish them throughout our life. I am a member of YTV team and I am exploring all possibilities as a photographer here.

What made you choose LPU?

For higher education. I had to chose a university which not only a great education infrastructure but also with best in class facilities for cricket as well as diversity. And LPU checks all those boxes. I love the vibes here.
