combining button-up shirt and T-shirt - cosy yet wearable, you won't want to take them off.

BLACK FACE MASKS

When it comes to protecting yourself, you may as well do it beautifully. These sleek black face masks match almost any outfit you wear. Opt for a silky fabric for easier breathing or choose something with embellishments if you're feeling fancy. The beauty behind this face-covering is the limitless styling opportunities that come along with it. Wear anything from a red trench coat to a colour-blocking suit and look exceptionally stylish.

YELLOW-CAMEL STYLING

Keep it neutral with yellow and camel colour styling. Try a light brown suit or coat with a mustard turtle neck for the cooler months or a sleek tan T-shirt and camel pair of flare pants.

STOP MAKING PRESUMPTIONS, THE WORLD IS FULL OF OPPORTUNITIES

Why not maths? A plethora of opportunities would be available then but opting biology would limit your career choices somehow."

A mediocre can go for either commerce or humanities. But you are among toppers, make sure to think twice before choosing humanities over science."

This is something we have been hearing from the majority of people. But following this kind of mindset might make you stand somewhere in mid of the journey where you can neither take a U-turn nor move forward because somehow you fail to make your own choices.

The world has a lot of career choices available. Stop making presumptions and don't fear of making decisions out of your passion and what you love to do.

9 things to remember:

1. Having opted biology doesn't mean to study medicine.
2. Maths doesn't guarantee better placement offers.
3. Humanities and commerce are vast subjects to be explored.
4. Making career in areas other science is not a thing to be looked down upon.
5. You have always got a lot of things to explore in last career option you had.
6. The world doesn't end when you fail crack your dream college.
7. Don't take pressure from peer but inspiration.
8. Easy jobs are not so-called easy.
9. Top careers are may not be at the top for you.

This Monsoon, try something healthy and home-cooked

Monsoon has got special power that triggers our mouth-watering glands because of which we are then simply swayed to have something chatpata or fried and crispy. And there are countless varieties of street food available to satisfy this exceptional hunger, aloo chat, pav bhaji, road-side biryani, paneer rolls, momos and so on to name a few.

How about preparing mind blowing stuffs at home which do absolutely fulfil our rainy season special senses' needs? Well, here is what you must try to keep a balance between health and a good taste.

1. Having roasted Corn (Bhutta) while its raining simultaneously is a forever craving food. Also, we can buy the raw ones and stock. The tangy flavour in preparing sweet corn is a bonus.

2. 'Arbi ke patte ke pakode' (Colocasia leaves) is a leafy dish with lots of health benefit but extremely tempting as well. Gram flour blended with spices is wrapped with the heart-shaped leaves, steamed and deep fried.

Try to keep a balance between health and a good taste this monsoon season

3. 'Rice fara' looks like Idli and sometimes may not if stuffed or so. But absolutely delicious to have with some chutney of your choice. Once steamed, they can be deep fried or wrapped with veges and spices.

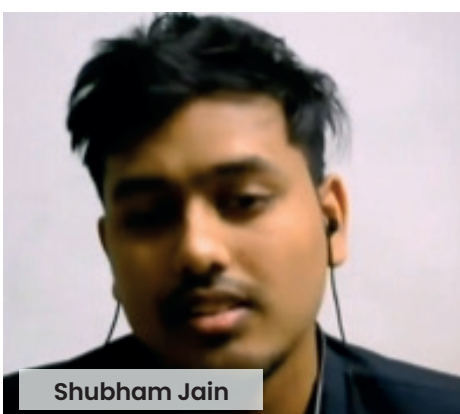

4. 'Moong daal ke pakode' with 'Pudina chutney' is something very common, and we all enjoy having it. Don't forget to taste it this season.

5. Preparing 'Moongfali ki chutney' at home is the easiest thing one can do to change to a better taste. Eating it with 'Rava idli' or 'Chilla' is a good combination for sure.

Try out them and fall in love with home-made stuffs.

'LPU helped me in getting placed at Mark&Spencer'

Shubham Jain

Class - B.Tech. CSE (Alumni)
Achievement - Placed at TiVo, leading American digital corporation

Why CSE at LPU?

While I cleared by JEE Mains, I did not get the NIT of my choice having BTech CSE. While doing my research, I found LPU and was astonished to see its placement record.

How did LPU prepare you for your career?

After 2nd year, you have to choose a specialisation. I choose machine learning as I thought it has great scope in the future. After 2 years at LPU, LPU provides tutors to give you a headstart in your placements. LPU organises various soft-skill classes and various other classes to give students a chance to excel.

Tips to students how will be appearing for placements?

For a CSE student, there are few important things that everyone should keep in mind. You have to be good in one object-oriented program like Java or C++ or Python. You also need to be good at Data, Statistics and Algorithm and some theory topics. If you are good at these, there are 90% chance of you getting placed. Best of luck

“Humanities is the next big thing as a career option for students”

Pavitar Parkash Singh, more popularly known as PP Sir, believes that India should go back to offline mode of education when the crisis of COVID is over

PP Singh, Associate Dean and HOS, School of Humanities

Read a book every month to relax and

LOVELY WORLD: Could you share what the past year has been like in terms of student choices - highlighting the challenges and how you managed to turn things around?

PP SINGH: Due to lockdown, students had to go for online classes. They faced lots of challenges related to class conduction, students' involvement, which impacted teacher-student relationship. So, major thrust was given to make the lectures more interesting and compact with detailed and systematic presentation.

- Importance have been given to make further rapport at the initiation of the classes so that a psychological bonding can be framed.
- Continuous classes and sincere approach to them was required for their sustained involvement in the academics.
- Periodic evaluations and preparations also felt them to be in the course, just like offline.
- Network system with the Faculty Members along with close and intimate supervision of the Senior faculty of LPU also facilitated the entire programme a successful one.
- While it took little time for me to be accustomed with the system, after some time, I got pleasure of interacting in this format and it was further strengthened with the positive feedback and students involvement in academics.

Humanities has got immense career provisions and probably more than the science, in the professional fields

LOVELY WORLD: Let's speak about Social Sciences. Which is the most popular program among graduates and the reason behind it?

PP SINGH: The most popular course is Clinical Psychology. Students are taking a lot of interest in this subject because many interesting theory and mental disorders & therapeutic applications are there which have predominant career option as a Counsellor or Clinical Psychologist.

“Students studying Humanities can get a broad spectrum of careers after completion of their courses”

LOVELY WORLD: How much weightage should be given to practical in today's education system?

PP SINGH: Practicals are equally important with the theory, otherwise application to the theory cannot be demonstrated to students.

Now the career options are much more application-based, where practicals are very much essential to provide hands on experience to the students.

LOVELY WORLD: What students should expect when studying Humanities?

PP SINGH: In recent years, Humanities has got immense career provisions and probably more than science, in the professional fields. Now students are taking Humanities as a first option, leaving other lucrative and most preferred options like Medical and Engineering. Another advantage of Humanities is that students of this field can get a broad spectrum of careers after successful completion of their courses.

Humanities' students are the prime need of our country because this particular course rehearses our cognitive functions more in a rational and panoramic way.

LOVELY WORLD: What is your view on the future of education in India (e.g., is it moving towards online or offline is still the preferred choice)?

PP SINGH: Presently we are following online mode for educating students. Due to the Pandemic, we are bound to do that as there is no other successful option beyond that.

According to me, India should go back to offline mode of education when the crisis of Covid is over, because that is the most acceptable and scientific method of providing a learning environment.

LOVELY WORLD: Why to choose LPU?

PP SINGH: The academic environment of LPU is very accepting to the students and also it is comfortable to them (e.g., students can get easy access to their requirements regarding to studies, ready access to different departments and the faculties for their clarifications).

The physical environment of LPU is also conducive for studying where students feel free and relax with their academics, recreations, accommodations and refreshments. Few other benefits include:

Continuous faculty support. Periodic evaluation along with continuous assessment. Placement options, Career Conferences and Symposiums.

LPU also offer a Longitudinal Career Option to students- they have been offered with various subsequent programs which can make them equipped with all necessary requirements for the career.

LOVELY WORLD: Post Pandemic, where and how do you see LPU?

PP SINGH: In Post Pandemic situation, I see LPU going back to the Offline Mode of education and thousands of students coming from different parts of India and abroad.

More integrated and comprehensive education should be provided to them for their ease and understanding.

“In Post Pandemic situation, I see LPU going back to Offline Mode of education, with thousands of students joining us”

LOVELY WORLD: What are your hobbies & how do you relieve your stress?

PP SINGH: My hobby is reading books. I read a lot & have a habit of finishing a book in around three weeks. Whenever in stress or wish to relax, I start a new book to read with “Thank You For Being Late” my favourite. Yes, of course I watch a lot of news and English movies also, with Bond movies being my favourite.
